IN APPRECIATION

JAMES SULLIVAN

In gratitude for the time and effort which you, Mr. Sullivan, have so willingly devoted, the class of 1962 dedicates its year-book. Not only as our advisor but as our friend, you have shared with us and have been responsible for our successful high school years. Your equanimity and patience, as well as your fun-loving character, reflected in your little blue M.G., have guided the class through the most trying situations. This time in our lives will be long remembered because of your ever-present kindness and understanding.

FOREWORD

Time is the master of the universe and often the dictator of our lives. Especially influential in school, time is the core around which school life revolves. Looking back, we realize how quickly the time has passed, yet how much has been encountered and accomplished. We pause here in the pages of the 1962 Torch to review the past year before we again become caught up in the onward rush of time. As time revolves, we revolve.

"There's a time for some things, and a time for all things; a time for great things, and a time for small things."

Cervantes.

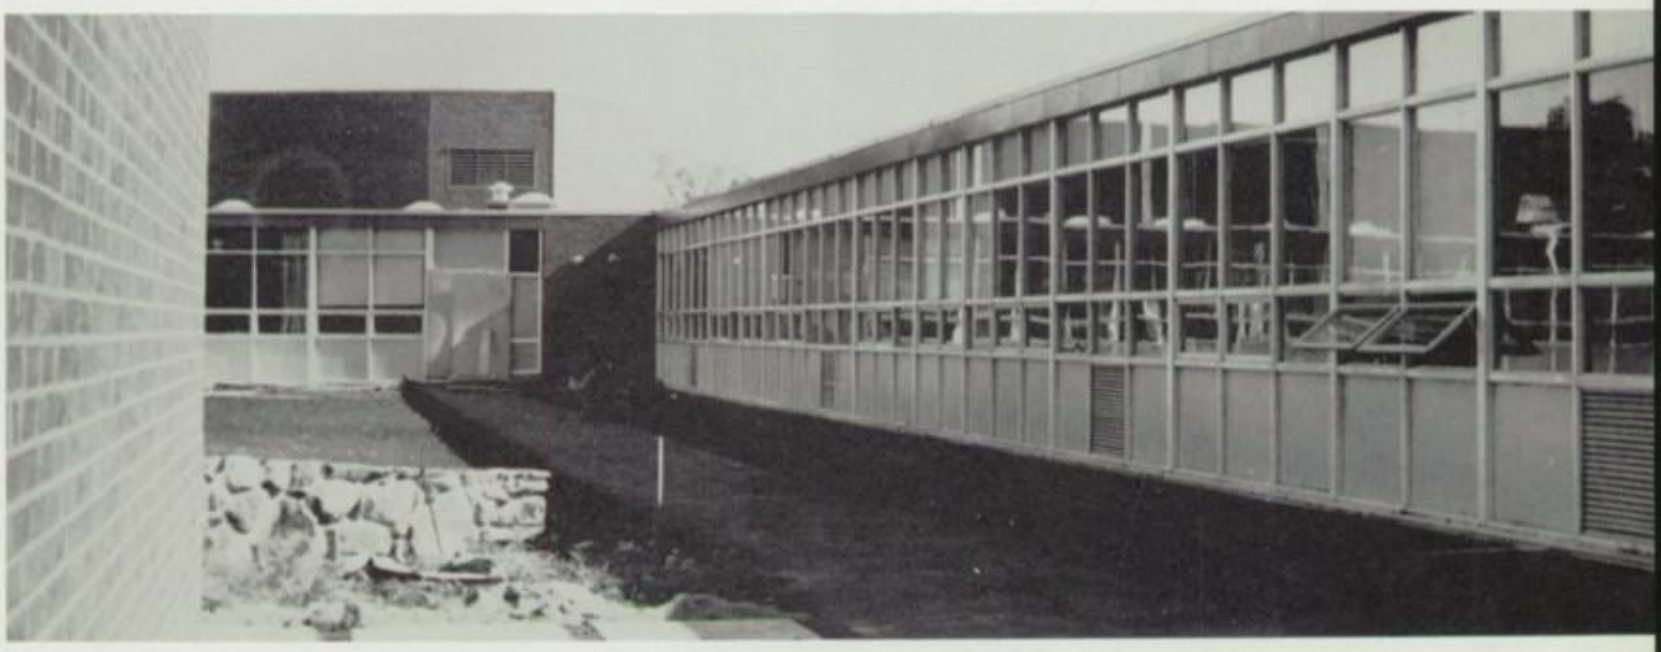
Main entrance to new wing under construction.

"SOMETHING NEW"

The fourteen-room wing which provides much-needed class and corridor space. Decreased congestion has caused increased perambulation.

Ann Cowley, Kathy Paradise, Karen Swenson with other members of the student body enjoy the new study hall.



A new walk connecting the library to the lecture hall.

The site of the new recreation field.

The language laboratory which is to better develop the aural-oral skills of the French and Spanish students.

Bonnie McLean, Kathy Paradise, Karen Swenson and other language students take advantage of the new language lab.

MARCHING BAND

Acton Boxborough Regional High School Marching Band begins its second year as a unit, complete with royal blue and gold uniforms. The band marches about four times a year climaxing with the Memorial Day Parade. This year they also marched in the Northeastern Music Festival held at Lynnfield.

MATH TEAM

This year ABRHS added a Math Team to its many activities. Miss Mary Keefe and Miss Marklyn Trainor, at the first meeting, explained the function of the team in the Massachusetts Mathematics League Western Division competition. The students were told that run-offs would be given before each league match, the top scoring students in these run-offs participating in the meets, with not more than four students from a single grade, grades 10-12, being allowed to compete. Each school in the league acted as host for the participating teams once during the year. Awards were given for the three teams that placed highest in the monthly competition, the two high scoring seniors, juniors, and sophomores, and for the student having the highest average on each team.

Live your part! . . . "Society is vul-aah!" . . . From the bizarre tastes and Stanislavsby to Roman togas and Cleopatra. "Taking no chances, honey. I've just written in a new character—Cleopatra's bodyguard."

The nervous director searched for his play book and called, "On stage! . . . Quiet backstage!" And the play begins . . . "The rain it raineth everyday . . ."

Thus weeks of rehearsals, frustration, and fun culminated in the delightful performances of Stardust by Walter Kerr, under the electric direction of Mr. James Sullivan.

JUNIORS

Judy Nordberg and Jane Standley with their classmates listen attentively to their chemistry lecture.

Eagerly awaiting the arrival of traditional rings, symbols of the lasting link between student and school, the Junior Class entered their third year in high school.

With the willing support of their class advisors Mr. Wall, Mr. Mann, and Mrs. Jordan, the Juniors sponsored two successful dances. With added profits from these dances and two food sales during the scholastic year the Washington trip, of next year, is no longer an unattainable goal.

SOPHOMORES

Ian Miller uses the telephone in speech class.

In both school participation and extra-curricular activities the Sophomores have proven themselves capable of high acclaim. Backed by the guidance of their advisor, Mr. Dadoly, they successfully sponsored two dances, one in the fall and one in the spring. Selling of pom-poms and beanies in school colors, during the basketball season, was a great aid to the boosting of both school morale and their class treasury.

Having experienced success of the past year they now look forward to their Junior year and the traditional class rings.

FRESHMEN

Along with great spirit and anticipation the Freshman class entered high school fascinated at the prospects ahead. Becoming adjusted was far from difficult and soon they felt themselves part of the student body. The guidance of Mr. Pratt, the class advisor, and the willing cooperation of the class members resulted in two successful dances—one in the spring, the other in the fall.

With the accomplishments of this first year, the Freshman class has realized a basis for their future years.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Carol Schene lights the candle of Character.

The membership of the National Honor Society this year proved to be the largest ever with twenty-one members. This is an outstanding achievement, for not only do the members have to have an average of 85% or better, but also must excel in leadership, scholarship, and character. By their example, these members hope to produce an incentive for future members.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Maintaining harmony and acting as an intermediary between students, faculty, and administration is the task of the Student Council, under the direction of Mr. Hayes.

During the year the Council sponsored a St. Valentine's Day Dance and an Election Hop. At the end of the year a Webster's Dictionary is presented by it to the valedictorian. It also ran the class elections, gave refreshments to the sport teams after games, and sold candy at the basketball games. In November it served as host to the Association of Northeastern Student Councils.

COLONIAL CRIER

For the first time this year, the "Colonial Crier" sponsored a dance as a means of helping to write off last year's deficit.

Since this year's staff was so small many long tireless hours were spent in preparing the issues of the "Colonial Crier" for the press. This work was rewarding for the staff, nevertheless, since several national certificates of recognition were awarded to the paper.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The general principle behind this club of nearly twenty members was to give its members a good general foundation in all parts of photography, from taking a good picture to making a final print. The club regularly received films and other educational materials from the Ansco corporation. In addition to this material, talks were given by members and actual development and printing of pictures was done by the audio-visual room being used as a dark room. After these periods the results were studied by all of the members and constructive criticism was offered. During the year several competitions were held among the members and the club also sponsored a school wide contest.

SKI CLUB

With a limited membership of thirty, the Ski Club has completed its third successful year. The purpose of this club was to learn the inside facts of skiing; safety rules, care and selection of equipment and ski courtesy; the co-purpose of Ski Club was to instruct beginners in art of skiing and to interest non-skiers in the sport. The officers of this Club were Paul Henneforth, President; Wendie Whitcomb, Secretary, and George Dionne, Treasurer, while Miss Trainor, faculty advisor, very capably led and instructed the members.

BOYS' INTRAMURALS

Our intramural program supplements and complements the instructional program by providing additional opportunity to develop functional skills, increase mutual friendships, provide worthwhile activity for leisure time, create group loyalty, and provide additional opportunity to extend the development of interests and skills initiated in the regular class period. Throughout the year it is estimated that 98% of all students participated in the above program.

DEBATING CLUB

For the first time this year, the Acton-Boxborough Debating Team was a member of the Lowell Suburban Debating League. The Debate team was composed of both students interested in doing research and critical work as well as those interested in the debating itself. As the year progressed debates were held with other schools in the league in preparation for the tournaments, in which all the schools in the league participated for the trophies awarded to the winners in various catagories. Financial aid was provided by the P.T.A. while lawyers Julian J. D'Agostine and Michael G. Connolly served as the judges representing Acton. The affirmative team captain was Peter Boardman; the negative team captain was Kenneth Grimme; the faculty advisor was Mr. Pratt.

TENNIS CLUB

Each Tuesday afternoon the Tennis Club provided its members the opportunity for competition and practice. During the fall and spring the outdoor tennis courts were used; during the winter the meetings were held in the gym where a tennis handball was played. Plans are being made for the formation of a tennis team which will compete against teams from other schools.

GIRLS' INTRAMURALS

Deck tennis, basketball, volleyball, ping pong, archery, and badminton are some of the many sports directed by Miss Stearns during girl's intramurals. The main object of this activity is to provide a chance for interested girls to exercise and have fun.

ARCHITECTURE CLUB

Developments of architecture from past to extremely modern were the main topics of discussion during the weekly meetings of the club. Their advisor, Mr. Morris, aided the members by proposing different treatments and approaches to the same problems. Richard Nylander as president, Carmen Sarno, Richard Beddoe, and Annette Dionne head the Architect Club as able officers.

COLONIAL RADIO CLUB

The Colonial Radio Club was formed with the primary purpose of promoting and furthering interest in the many phases of amateur radio in particular and electronics in general. An amateur radio station operated daily under the call sign KIROW with the equipment purchased by the members. At this writing there were five licensed operators (Leighton Nickerson K1ODC, Stanley Broadbent K1MTU, Lynne Smith, KN1VGD, Tim Prowten KN1RNQ, Dan Prowten K1RNF) with two more licenses awaiting F.C.C. action.

SECOND ROW: Donald MacPherson, David Lightbody, James Ratta, Michael Leddon, Giles Lowden.

RIFLE TEAM

Under the competent advisory of Mr. Sullivan the rifle club offered its members a better knowledge of firearms, and a chance to shoot both recreationally and competitively. The rifle team, which competed with various other schools in the area, was composed of the ten best marksmen in the rifle club. Members of the rifle team received additional benefits, such as efficiently under strain and pressure.

FUTURE NURSES

Under the able direction of Mrs. Olson, the Future Nurse's Club activities helped many girls to better their understanding in nursing this year. Their Christmas project consisted of making yarn animals and scrapbooks to give to hospitalized children. Other activities included tours of surrounding medical institutions, various speakers, who familiarized the club members with different aspects of the nursing profession, and several parties throughout the year.

SOCCER

This year's soccer team enjoyed its most successful season in years. The team's record was 8 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie, for second place in the league standings. Only Lincoln-Sudbury, the league champions, defeated A.B.R.H.S. twice. In the game which decided the champions, A.B.R.H.S. lost to Lincoln-Sudbury by a score of 1-0 in the hardest-fought game of the season.

Although six of the eleven starters are graduating, the team's potential is great. Headed by Ian Millar as captain, next year's team looks forward to another successful season.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

This year the girls' basketball team did not enter a league. Playing approximately the same towns as the previous years, the team concluded the season with 11 wins, 8 losses. Janet Putman, as captain, led the teams from the Alumni game to the Ashby Tournament game against North Middlesex, inspiring the spirit which the girls carried through. Kathy Paradis, followed by Nancy Peck and Diane Wetherbee, was high scorer with 139 points and also held the top foul shooting percentage. The defensive, Brenda Duren, Brenda Bentsen, Margaret Moland, Ann Cowley and Joan Hansen, alternately worked well together.

Phil Pike ushers the girls' teams to the games.

Dorothy Stewart (Assistant Manager), Miss Stearns (Coach), Janet Putnam (Captain), Judith Dill (Manager).

The Girls' Junior Varsity excelled this season, finishing with fourteen wins, two losses. Amy Bartlett, high scorer with 138 points, Cynthia Allan, Diane Fullonton and Paula Paskiewicz played outstanding offense while Lorraine Moland, Linda Davis, Elizabeth Robinson and JoAnn Hartshorn contributed much to the defense.

JUNIOR VARSITY

This year, although an unimpressive 4-12 record was obtained, the Boys' Junior Varsity gained valuable experience by participating. Some of these Junior Varsity boys having gained this experience will play with the varsity next season. Top scorers for this year were Bob Sampson, Dave Locke, and Craig Henry, S. Stanley Broadbent and Dave Locke also did fine defensive work.

STANDING: Mr. Boylan, Stanley Broadbent, Bob Hill, Gordon Edgon, Steve Welsh, Craig Henry, Bob Sampson, Peter Moody. KNEELING: Dave Locke, Don Shelley, Don Linquist, Carmin Sarno, David Parks, Ronnie Sweatt, Giles Lowden. FIRST ROW: Henry Hodgon, Bob Dionne, Richard Beddoe, Bill Cowley.

CHEERLEADERS

Enthusiasm, personality, poise, self assurance, leadership and showmanship were the six qualities which led to the choosing of this year's cheerleaders. The size of this year's squad was increased from eight to nine regular members with two alternates. Led by Captain Debbie Smith, our cheerleaders effectively created school spirit at the home games, while boosting the morale of our teams on foreign courts.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Meeting on the second and fourth Mondays ot each month, the committee discuss and plan the needed education for future citizens.

With the expanding growth in population new and difficult problems have arisen. Advancements in the fields of science, math, and English have made necessary the careful study of courses and requirements, more and better teachers, and planning of space that can fit the needs of the student. This is done so that he might better himself in his career and find his proper place in life.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Mr. O'Connell, intermediary between the school board and the school administration, is largely responsible for the growth and development of our school system.

With the opening of the addition in January, the school benefited from the new science and language facilities. His efficient efforts have enabled the school to become a more effective educational unit.

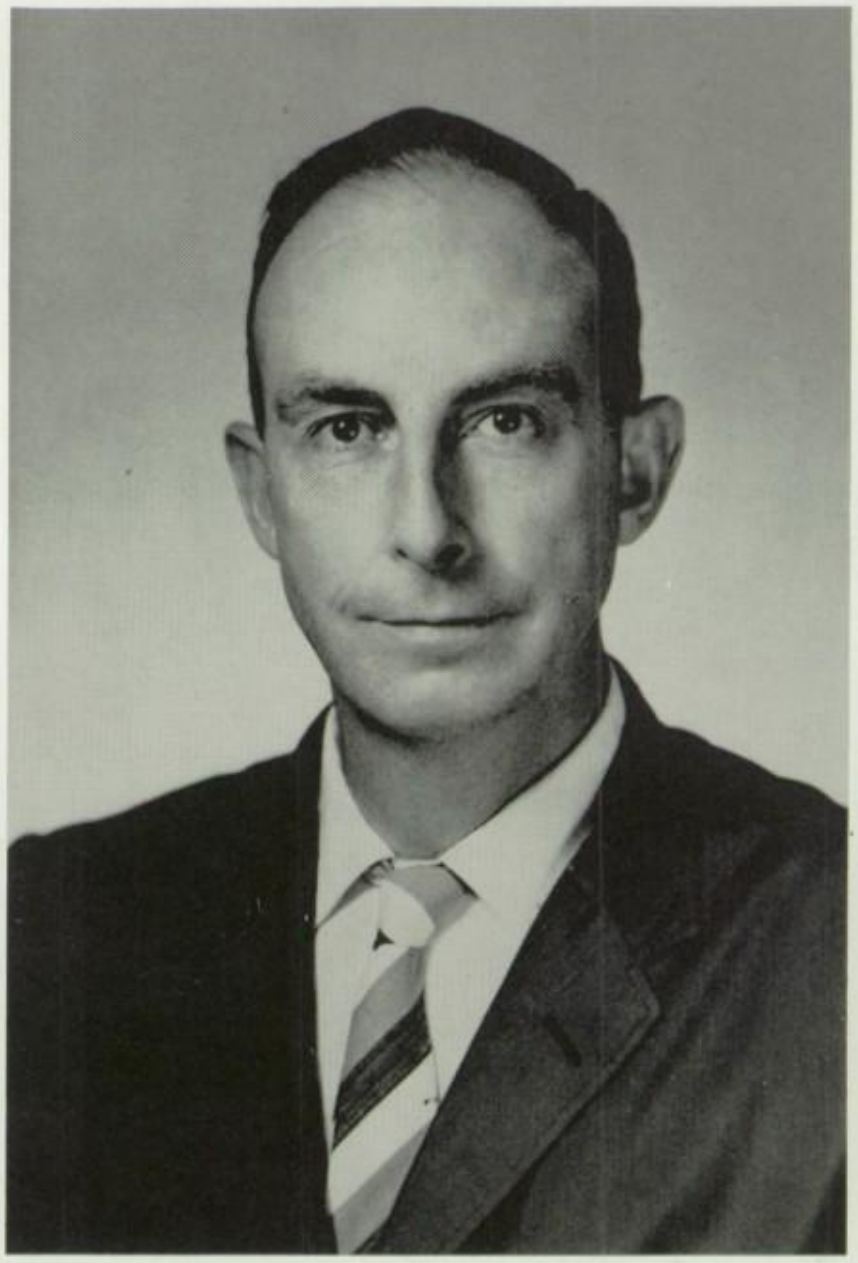
MR. RAYMOND J. GREY
PRINCIPAL

The vibrant personality of Mr. Grey, our principal, is shown in his enthusiasm and vital interest in all aspects of school life. Despite the demands of many executive duties, he tirelessly manifests a readiness to help and a respected firmness.

MR. ARTHUR J. HAYES
VICE-PRINCIPAL

The dignified presence of Mr. Hayes signifies instantaneous authority. Ability in directing people is an enduring quality of our indispensable Vice-Principal.

Mr. Arthur Hayes isn't too happy with the length of the detention list.



GUIDANCE

The invaluable assistance that our guidance counselors provide has enabled us to make the most of our potentialities and interests. From orientation to decisions concerning our futures, the guidance department tries to direct us along the right paths toward our goals.

The orientation classes of Mr. Patkewich provide a smooth transition from elementary to junior high school. In addition to these classes, Mr. Petkewich is in charge of the guidance counseling for grade seven and parts of grades eight and nine.

Mr. Brenner's counseling duties include the preparation of his eighth, ninth, and tenth grade students for future decisions concerning their vocations—not momentary but carefully-deliberated decisions.

Miss Proctor, Director of Guidance, advises the students of the eleventh and twelfth grades. Her aid in the choosing of colleges and careers is a most necessary part of the school program.

Providing a sound basis for written and spoken expression, the interpretation of literature, and the development of critical judgement is the goal of the English department. To aid in this intention, a program of summer reading as well as departmental co-sponsorship of the movie classics Oliver Twist and Hamlet, has been instituted. Under the direction of Mr. Stuart P. Adler, newly appointed department head, the English curriculum is in the process of revision to equip the student not only with a more intense background of knowledge but to integrate with his studies a fundamental understanding of life.

Mr. Adler's Senior English class discovers that English can be fun.

MUSIC

MR. CONSTANTINE LIMBERAKIS

MR. GEORGE DOREN

Progress is the keynote. This year has shown a continuation of the widening interest and participation in the music field. Mr. Limberakis has expanded the musical activities with the addition of the brass choir and the senior high school choir.

Mr. Doren holds a sectional rehearsal.

HOME ECONOMICS

With the offering of Home Economics as a major subject this year, a sounder basis for future homemaking skills has been provided. The tangible results of such a program have been exhibited in a student fashion show and dressmaking club.

MISS FRANCES BOYLE

MISS JEAN BERARD

Miss Boyle supervises her homemakers of tomorrow, Leslie Jeanson, Joan Rice, Donna Nickels and Paula Mitchell.

Cheerful, chuckling Mr. Grey.

OUR FIRST SEMESTER

● It's our freshman year in the Acton-Boxborough area and we've been so successful that we feel as gay as a senior on graduation day.

● Of course, we're deeply appreciative of the manner in which the individuals and business houses accepted us and rely on our over 100 years of successful business acumen in the handling of their banking needs.

Business goes where it's invited . . . stays where it's well treated.
